CHARITY WING WALK - MUM OF 42ND STREET CEO TAKES TO THE SKIES

Frankie's connection with aviation goes back many years. She was one of the first women to become an air traffic controller and, after raising her family, returned to the skies and gained her Private Pilot Licence.

At 90, she's taking on this new adventure with the belief that if you can still do something, you should try to do it, because you never know when you might not be able to.

Frankie's raising money for 42nd Street, supporting young people aged 11–25 across Greater Manchester with their mental health and emotional wellbeing through 1:1 therapy, group work and creative approaches

Wing walk: 1st September, 11.30am | Redcombe Airfield in Cirencester
